MOTIVATIONAL MAP - COACH TRAINING

Becoming a Maps Coach will enable you to use the maps to enhance the motivation and awareness of all those who complete a map, and to provide useful information for leaders to know what motivates their team members.

Information and awareness from the maps can assist performance management, communication, team development, leadership development, conflict resolution, recruitment, and career transition.

At the end of the training you will know:

- Why motivation is so important in today’s climate and the impact of motivation on productivity and peak performance
- What motivation is, the nine core motivational drivers, their interrelationships and how this can develop over time
- How to interpret and analyse the individual maps and provide effective coaching feedback and follow-up
- How to interpret the team map and develop enhanced awareness for effective communication and team working
- How to package up and use maps to add value to individual clients and in business.
- How to use the on-line administrative system to distribute and manage maps

We now offer two options to train to become a Licenced Practitioner (LP) of Motivational Maps (Maps Coach).

Option A

A two day training course which takes place in a relaxed atmosphere, and covers both the theory and practical aspects. It is experiential so you will spend plenty of time analysing maps and developing your skills.

Location: Training venue tbc as this varies.

Timings: 2 days typically 9.20am for a 9.30 start, until 4.30/5pm

Option B

This can be completed at a time and pace to suit you! It consists of four one and a half hour modules, with delegates having a task to complete between each session to embed their learning.

With both options the course cost includes 5 free maps for you to use, and a follow-up session with your trainer to ensure you are happy both with analysing the maps and using them to add value to your own and the organisations you operate in.
