

Coronavirus Business Advice and Support Update for Cambridge – Week beginning 29 June 2020

The information in this newsletter is correct as of Monday 29 June, 2020, but we suggest monitoring the key webpages outlined below as well as Cambridge City Council's website for the latest updates.

Calling all High Street and retail businesses

Join us at the next Greater Cambridge Business Forum

Share your experiences, hopes and needs as your retail or high street business returns to trading as lockdown restrictions ease.

Cambridge City Council and South Cambridgeshire District Council invite you to take part in an online Business Forum on Wednesday 8 July at 6pm.

Local MPs and Council Leaders want to better understand what it feels like to be a small business working in the high street environment in these unprecedented times, and the early challenges you face since reopening your doors.

The virtual session will give you the opportunity to raise any ongoing or new issues directly with Council Leaders and to hear from them and the three local MPs in Greater Cambridge. This will help the Councils to tailor the very best support for businesses who need it, and MPs can take your comments straight back to Westminster to raise as appropriate.

In order for us to send you a link to the live event, please register your interest online by 6 July. To help us to manage the available time most effectively, please submit any questions in advance when registering your interest using the above booking form.

1. Grants, funding and finance

Discretionary Grants Scheme

OVER £420,000 of grants have been paid to small businesses, charities and not-for-profit organisations in Cambridge in the first three weeks of the Discretionary Grants Fund, the latest Coronavirus grant scheme being run by Cambridge City Council.

The good news for businesses and not-for-profit organisations is that there is more funding available for eligible applicants and the council is urging them check their eligibility now.

The grant fund is open to businesses and organisations that:

1. were already operating when the Coronavirus pandemic was officially declared on 11 March;
2. intend to keep trading;
3. have not been able to access previous Coronavirus-related government grant funding schemes, such as the small business grant or retail, hospitality and leisure grant (though receipt of the furloughing funding and self-employed income support scheme are not a bar to eligibility).

Local grants of between £1,000 and £10,000 are available to those who can meet the council's eligibility criteria, which is detailed, along with an application form, at: www.cambridge.gov.uk/coronavirus-discretionary-grant-fund.

The key priority groups are charities and not-for-profit organisations, as well as small and micro businesses paying rent for shared premises where the landlord is paying business rates. Also eligible are certain B&Bs and market and street traders.

Grants will continue to be made on a first come, first served basis, although care will be taken to ensure all applicant categories receive a reasonable share of the overall grant funding available.

Cllr Richard Robertson, Executive Councillor for Finance and Resources, said: “I know how tough it has been for businesses and organisations of all types and sizes since the Coronavirus crisis hit and we are working hard to get funding and other support to them as quickly as possible.

“I am pleased that these latest grants are already making a difference to many local small businesses, charities and not-for-profit organisations that play such an important part in the local economy and community life.

“However, we know there are other local small businesses, charities and not-for-profit organisations who haven’t already applied. We want to ensure that they are aware of the possibility of financial help and make a claim.

“The government has made clear that the funding available for this scheme (around £1.1 million in total) is finite. When it is gone, there won’t be any more available.”

Contact business-grants@cambridge.gov.uk if you have any questions about the scheme.

2. Innovation funding and support

Government unveils £200m package to help innovative businesses bounce back

Innovative ideas and projects led by companies recovering from the impact of coronavirus could benefit from a new £200 million fund.

The government's Sustainable Innovation Fund will be open to companies across all parts of the UK who need urgent financial support to keep their cutting-edge projects and ideas alive.

Funding totalling almost £200 million could go towards developing new technologies focused on making homes and offices more energy efficient to cut bills, creating ground-breaking medical technologies to treat infections and diseases, or reducing the carbon footprint of public transport in our towns and cities.

In a move to support people across the country to establish more 'climate-positive' behaviours, businesses and start-ups could also make use of the fund to develop smart sustainability-focused projects – from apps encouraging people to cut down their food waste to sustainable biodegradable packaging.

The Sustainable Innovation Fund will help power the UK's economic recovery and develop new sustainable opportunities for businesses in any sector following the coronavirus pandemic, while helping the UK meet its ambitions to cut carbon emissions to net zero by 2050.

This funding, delivered through Innovate UK, forms part of a wider £750 million package of grants and loans announced in April to support innovative firms. This sits alongside the new £500 million Future Fund, which provides match-funding to private investors, and has already received over 500 applications since its launch on 20 May.

Businesses can apply for support through the Sustainable Innovation Fund by visiting the Innovate UK website from Monday 29 June.
